

The only reporting solution offering a designer, viewer, writer, and server embedded within a desktop or web application.

An on-premises reporting environment to create and share reports behind your firewall with data separation and isolation.

After nearly two decades of seeing how companies used its industry-leading components, Syncfusion discovered a need to simplify how enterprises create, store, and share vital business reports. With this in mind, Syncfusion concentrated its efforts on Bold Reports, a web-based report management solution that handles the minutiae, so you can see the big picture.

Make and edit reports with the Report Designer, which leverages Syncfusion's UI expertise to provide dozens of report items, interactive features, appealing styles, and customizable formatting options. Then, use the Report Server to publish and export your reports, manage their access permissions, and deliver them to users on the web.

When reports are available anywhere, pertinent stakeholders can collaborate to make better business decisions.

Business reporting doesn't have to burden your IT team or your budget. Contact us today to learn how Bold Reports can transform the way you present your data.
